Provision is given for varying feeds to suit the cut, and metal. The leading types of gear-cutters will be illustrated in these volumes. The following remarks indicate the broad lines along which the development of the automatic machines has taken place. There are many machines which are so far automatic in character that the whole of the flanks facing in one direction are produced without attendance, in others, both flanks are done. The gears which lend themselves best to fully automatic work are the spurs, because the flanks of the teeth are parallel, and opposite flanks are therefore produced at once by a cutter which is an exact counterpart of their shapes. The only special mechanism then required is that for automatic pitching, locking, and release....

Reviews

This is the finest publication we have read through right up until now. Better than never, though I am quite late in start reading this one. Its been written in an remarkably easy way in fact it is only after I finished reading through this book by which basically altered me, affect the way I think.

-- Dr. Gabriella Hayes

This publication can be really worth a go through, and superior to other. It is amongst the most amazing publication we have go through. You wont feel monotony at anytime of your own time (that's what catalogues are for about when you request me).
