This resolution, which the Brooklyn organization hopes will constitute the first step toward securing greatly needed relief from the existing shortage of numerous drugs and medicines, was suggested by Dr. Otto Raubenheimer but was introduced by Charles F. Heimerzheim, who read a letter from Dr. Raubenheimer on this subject and then proposed the adoption of a resolution embodying his recommendation and the sending of a copy of same to Washington. Dr. Raubenheimer was unable to attend the meeting, but he pointed out in his letter that several of the pharmaceutical bodies in Manhattan were planning to take similar action and suggested that the Kings county men anticipate the New York county druggists in this move. While explaining the crying need for many of the scarcest of the botanical drug and chemical preparations in this country, Mr. Heimerzheim said that it had recently become impossible to procure a steadily increasing number of drugs and chemicals here at any price although a few months ago it was still possible to purchase any such article, provided the prospective buyer was willing to pay exorbitant figures asked by second hands and speculators for the goods in question, and that there was no improvement in sight until the termination of the war in Europe releases the drugs now held up abroad, unless the United States government induces the warring powers to permit more liberal-shipsments to this country in the near future. On behalf of the committee on legislation, Dr. William...
